Instructions for Form FTB 3803

Parents' Election to Report Child's Interest and Dividends

General Information

A Purpose

Use form FTB 3803 if you are a parent and elect to report the income of your child on your California income tax return. If you do, the child will not have to file a return. You may report your child's income on your California income tax return even if you do not do so on your federal income tax return. You may file this form if your child meets all of the following conditions:

- Was under age 14 on January 1, 1999;
- Had income only from interest and dividends;
- Had gross income for 1998 that was more than $700 but less than $7,000;
- Made no estimated tax payments for 1998;
- Did not have any overpayment of tax shown on his or her 1997 return applied to the 1998 return; and
- Had no state income tax withheld from his or her income (backup withholding).

As a parent, you must also qualify as explained below in General Information B.

Use Part I to figure the amount of the child's income to report on your return. Use Part II to figure any additional tax that must be added to your tax.

B Parents Who Qualify to Make the Election

You qualify to make this election if you file Form 540, California Resident Income Tax Return, or Form 540NR, California Non-resident or Part-Year Resident Income Tax Return, and if any of the following applies to you:

- You and the child's other parent were married to each other and you file a joint return for 1998.
- You and the child's other parent were married to each other but you file separate returns for 1998 AND you had the higher taxable income. If you do not know if you had the higher taxable income, get federal Pub. 929, Tax Rules for Children and Dependents.
- You were unmarried, treated as unmarried for state income tax purposes or separated from the child's other parent by a divorce or separate maintenance decree. You must have had custody of your child for most of the year (you were the custodial parent). If you were the custodial parent and you remarried, you may make the election on a joint return with your new spouse. But if you and your new spouse (your child's stepparent) do not file a joint return, you qualify to make the election only if you had higher taxable income than your new spouse.

Note: If you and the child's other parent were not married but you lived together during the year with the child, you qualify to make the election only if you are the parent with the higher taxable income.

If you elect to report your child's income on your return, you may not reduce that income by any deductions that your child would be entitled to on his or her own return, such as the penalty on early withdrawal of child's savings or any itemized deductions. For more information, see the instructions for federal Form 8814, Parents' Election to Report Child's Interest and Dividends.

C How to Make the Election

To make the election, complete and attach form FTB 3803 to your Form 540 or Form 540NR and file your return by the due date (including extensions).

You must file a separate form FTB 3803 for each child whose income you choose to report.

Also include any exempt-interest dividends your child received as a shareholder in a mutual fund or other regulated investment company. Do not include this interest on line 1a.
